Introduction

162 strategy-based, student-facing modules designed to support state standards for ELA and ESOL, and the Common Core State standards. All modules are appropriate for struggling learners and ESOLs; all strategies taught are evidence-based. Modules may be taken online with a PC, Mac, Chromebook, or tablet. Research confirms that students read and comprehend differently when reading on digital devices, and too often they do not read with deep comprehension due to numerous distractors. Lack of deep comprehension affects memory, critical understanding, and most important: academic progress. Reading can be effective when specific strategies are applied to various application designs. Reading is always strengthened (versus weakened) when evidence-based strategy is employed to read digital print.

Other features include:

- Zoom sessions available on-demand in every course module
- Evidence-based strategies and with student-facing strategy guides
- Downloadable content for pen and paper use
- Downloadable curriculum materials including a Teaching Guide
- Audio-scripted content
- Aligned to state and Common Core State Standards (additional alignments made upon request)
